FLIES YANKEES OUT OF AUSTRIA

(Special To The Times)
An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England (By Mail)—Second Lieutenant John Mitchell, 19, of Gettysburg, Pa., navigator on the 452nd Bomber Group's B-17 Flying Fortress "Gruesome Crews," recently assumed a different role when he flew with formations of the Eighth Air Force's Third Air Division on a shuttle-flight to Linz, Austria, to return liberated Allied prisoners of war to their native countries.

The flight to Austria was made at the low level of 2,000 feet, and the combat airmen had an opportunity to view the destruction wrought upon the Nazis by the incessant heavy bombing attacks on vital German war industries and transportation lines prior to V-E Day. Many famous cities, such as Cologne, Frankfurt and Nurnberg, once the pride of Germany, now lay exposed and desolate, a skeleton of their former selves.

Lieutenant Mitchell's Fortress landed at an airfield on the outskirts of Linz, Austria, and he immediately began to aid in the loading and handling of the long-imprisoned Allied troops, many of them sick and injured.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Crist Mitchell, 144 Carlisle street, Gettysburg. Prior to entering the AAF in June, 1943, Lieutenant Mitchell was a student at Gettysburg high school.

Truck Smashes House Fronts

The big Super Service semi-trailer loaded with 10 tons of freight which damaged the fronts of three dwellings on Chambersburg street Friday is shown lying on its side on the sidewalk after swinging wide on the curve from Buford avenue, careening over the curb and smashing to a stop against two parked cars and the wreckage of the house fronts.

In the upper photo the damaged sedan of Mrs. Katherine Eckenrode is shown on the pavement in front of the John Raffensperger home while the rear end of the overturned trailer lies close to the smashed front porch of the Thaddeus Warren property. The house west of the Warren building was damaged by a telephone pole sheared off by the big truck. The top of the pole can be seen above the Warren porch roof.

The lower view, in which the Eckenrode car is hidden by the truck cab, shows the damaged coupe of Edward Hughes which was shoved along with the Eckenrode car from its parking place in front of the Warren house.

Battle Of Okinawa May Be Won By Yanks Within Next Ten Days

By HAMILTON W. FARON

Guam, June 2 (AP)—The U. S. 10th Army, after completing erasure of Japan's main defense line on southern Okinawa by capturing all of Shuri, sprang forking drives today aimed at obtaining use of the island's best airfield and harbor.

A front line dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking said another 10 days may see the end of organized enemy resistance.

An Okinawa dispatch from Associated Press Vern Haugland noted, however, that the west coast peninsula below the fallen capital of Naha is "alive with troops" in position to defend the big Naha airfield.

Break Backbone of Defense

An official navy spokesman said yesterday in Washington he was convinced the backbone of Japan's Okinawa defenses has been broken.

Tokyo radio found little to say about the ground operations but sought to bolster the homeland with extensive claims of American shipping sunk by suicide planes and assurances more such attacks are in the offing. The unnamed American Navy spokesman in Washington listed losses of 23 U. S. Navy ships and two merchant ammunition ships in the Okinawa area since the invasion on April 1. More than 40 others have been damaged.

Japs Fighting Stubbornly On Luzon Island

By FRED HAMPSON

Manila, June 2 (AP)—Yanks of the 38th Division ran into strong opposition yesterday while attacking Japanese elements forced out of the old Shimbun line east of Manila.

Enemy resistance also stiffened again on Mindanao island, but Americans pushed into the head of the Cagayan valley, prospective last stand for the Japanese on Luzon, and a survey showed Allied air forces in this area had sunk or damaged 2,117,482 tons of Japanese shipping since January 1.

Despite the beating administered to the Shimbun line by the Americans after the Japanese were driven into that sector from Manila in February, the enemy managed to conserve important forces there.

Fierce Resistance
From these Nipponese elements the 38th recently wrested Wawa dam and the Marikina gorge, a part of the Manila watershed. Capture of the dam and gorge breached the Shimbun line but did not prevent withdrawal of considerable enemy forces to new positions.

In yesterday's attack 150 or more Japanese were killed at a river bend position, but when the Yanks stabbed into hill positions nearby the new enemy line put up fierce resistance.

On Mindanao, in the southern Philippines, the 31st Division drove the enemy back about half a mile east of Mayabay but reported heavy opposition Wednesday from Japanese held hill caves east of Managok.

To the west of Villa Verde trail, doughboys of the 33rd Division entered tunnels of the Balatoc mine and found the bodies of about 200 Japanese who apparently were killed by fellow soldiers or left to die because they could not move.

Philippine President Sergio Osmeña announced one division of the commonwealth army had been accepted by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for "the campaign against Japan" and would be equipped with American arms. It is being formed at two centers on Luzon island.

Lt. Richard Miller Is Among Liberated

Adams county relatives have learned of the liberation from a Nazi prison camp of Lt. Richard D. Miller, 22, AAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Miller, Harrisburg. The airman, was confined in Germany for more than a year, having been captured after an air mission over that country early in the spring of 1944. He was at first reported "missing in action," but in May of that year his family were informed of his capture.

His father, who in his youth made his home with his sister, Mrs. Curtis W. Deatrick, near East Berling, for a time, is a veteran of World War I and at present is disabled due to his war wounds.

Students in Gettysburg's public schools boosted their war bond purchases in the "Mighty Seventh" war loan campaign during the past week to $78,465.90, Miss N. Louise Ramer, in charge of school sales, announced today.

Each school in town has reported bond sales every week since the opening of the campaign and each school has exceeded its quota by several thousand dollars.

TRUMAN GIVES JAPS BAD NEWS ON YANK PLANS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

President Truman's disclosure that the U. S. Army in the Pacific ultimately will be twice its present size, and "bigger than our army was in Europe at its height," will fall on sorry ears in a Japan which already is apparently abandoning its hold on southern China and concentrating its strength in the north.

There are signs the Mikado's warlords are adopting Hitler's strategy for his desperate last-ditch stand. This was to fight a delaying action and ultimately to retire into his inner fortress for a finish fight. Meantime he pinned his slender hopes on some circumstance causing a quarrel among the Allies. Apropos of this, the well-informed British official military commentator Veritas makes these observations:

"Japan at the present time finds herself in a situation not unlike that of Germany before D-day. In a sense the Japanese are awaiting their own D-day. They have suffered considerable reverses in outlying territories, their naval power has been crippled so that it can no longer protect their sea lanes of communication or keep Allied forces out of Japanese home waters, and Allied submarines and air attacks have already destroyed a large proportion of their ocean-going transport."

Follow Nazi Example

"In these circumstances Japan is evidently falling back on the 'fortress' technique, and adopting the 'fortress' mentality. Just as Germany planned to hold the Reich with its neighboring countries behind impregnable defenses and with supporting bastions in the Balkans, Italy and Norway, so, in very much the same way, the Japanese are proclaiming their intention to carry on the fight to the death in defense of Japan itself, with Korea, Manchuria and Northern China. Their large garrisons in the Asiatic Balkans (Malaya, Sumatra, Siam, etc.) will of course fight to the last, but it is not improbable that Tokyo is now resigned to their eventual loss."

"When Germany saw her enemies pressing in from three sides upon the inner 'fortress,' she conducted a high-pressure propagandist and diplomatic campaign to split the Allies. In similar circumstances, Japan is doing likewise, and she evidently calculates that the confused situation in Europe (and in China) offers better prospects of success than in the case of the Nazis."

"Since the collapse of Germany, Japanese diplomacy has been concentrating on the urgently necessary task of reconciling Russia."

CARRIER RAID ON JAP ISLAND FOLLOWS B-29S

By LEE ERICKSON

Guam, June 2 (AP)—Carrier raids on Japan were renewed today, Tokyo radio reported, in the wake of B-29 fire raids which have inflicted "shockingly great" damage on Nippon's major industrial cities.

Tokyo reported "approximately 200" seaborne fighter planes and an unannounced number of flying boats from bases in the Kerama Islands bombed and strafed airdromes on Kyushu island for two hours this morning.

Some raiders also strafed trains in their attack on the most southern island of Nippon, Tokyo said.

The report followed other enemy broadcasts saying superbomb fire raids on Tokyo had forced the capital's residents to dig subterranean homes and predicting martial law might be declared to meet devastation inflicted by B-29s.

Hint Martial Law

A Japanese domestic broadcast quoted an editorial in the Tokyo Mainichi saying that "because of the fact that the number of war victims has increased to such a tremendous amount, we certainly would not be surprised even if we see a necessity of adopting martial law."

Airmen returning to their Marianas islands bases from the latest incendiary attack, made on Japan's second largest city by more than 450 superbombs yesterday, reported it was so effective that the "heart of Osaka seemed to be burning out."

All agreed results were excellent. Some veteran fire raiders placed it among the most successful B-29 raids on Japan.

The entire city was covered by a cloud of smoke so huge that the last waves had trouble finding their targets.

Ten superbombs failed to return. About 36 Tinian-based B-29s landed on two Jima because they were short of gas. They burned up all their fuel climbing to get out of bad weather on the way to Osaka.

Search For Girls In Infant's Death

Philadelphia, June 2 (AP)—Police continued their search today for two young girls seen playing with the three-year-old son of Mrs. Barbara Ripley a short time before the baby's body was found in a pile of debris six blocks from his home.

Dr. William S. Wadsworth, coroner's physician, said the baby, Thomas V. Ripley, Jr., died from a fracture of the neck which might have been caused by a fall, rough handling or by being dropped.

The baby disappeared from the rear of his home Thursday. Mrs. Ripley told police she left him there in his carriage while she went to a nearby store. The baby's father, a former Marine lives in Ventnor, N. J.

Detective Lt. Irvin Mock said he believed the girls may have taken the baby as "part of an elaborate game of playing house." "They probably fondled him and dressed and undressed him as they would a doll," he said.

POPE EXPRESSES HOPE FOR REICH

Vatican City, June 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII expressed hope in a world broadcast today that the German nation "can rise to new dignity and a new life once it has laid the satanic spectre raised by national socialism and the guilty have expiated the crimes they have committed."

The Pontiff strongly defended Vatican policy toward Nazi Germany throughout the years preceding the war. He addressed the college of cardinals paying their respects on St. Eugene's day, his name day.

Pope Pius said he personally had learned the "great qualities" of the German people during his nunciature in Berlin when, "in an atmosphere of liberty which political and social conditions at that time allowed, we worked for the consolidation of the status of the Catholic church in Germany." As archbishop Eugenio Pacelli, the Pope was sent as nuncio to the German kaiser with a Vatican peace plan in 1917 and remained as envoy to the German republic until 1929.

The Pope declared that by concluding its 1933 concordat with the Nazi government the Vatican "did everything possible to set up a formidable barrier to the spread of ideas at once subversive and violent." Previous German-Vatican accords had not provided adequate guarantees of freedom of faith to Catholics, the Pope added.

BILL VOISELLE IS VICTIM OF CARDS' RALLY

By JACK HANDE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bill Voiselle's surprising form reversal had baseball tongues wagging today as the New York Giants continued to drop back toward the pack in the National League.

All was serene in Mel Ott's camp when Big Bill from Ninety Six, S. C., reeled off eight successive mound triumphs but since Voiselle was belted out in Cincinnati 10 days ago, the New Yorkers have faltered.

It looked as though Voiselle was about to register his initial victory of the first western jaunt last night but the St. Louis Cardinals spurted for three in the last of the ninth to tip the score in their favor, 4-3.

Voiselle really had an excuse for that one although it would be hard to find any logical reason for his failure to last more than three innings in three previous starts, two of which he was charged with losing. The ace right-hander held a 3-1 lead going into the ninth at Sportsman's park and had given up one more run when a severe wind and rain storm interrupted play for almost an hour.

When Voiselle again took the hill, Ray Sanders greeted him with a score-tying single and Whitey Kurwolder tripled to win the game for reliever Harry Brecheen. It was the Giants' fifth setback in their last six games.

Walters Shades Bums

Bucky Walters recovered from a shaky start by going 13 innings for Cincinnati to beat Brooklyn, 6-3. Frank McCormick's three-run homer broke up the marathon night duel. The win stretched Cincinnati's victory string to six.

Pittsburgh, which took over second place by a 6-5 shade over Philadelphia, holds a three-percentage point edge on the Cards and Brooks, who are tied for third.

Chicago's tilt with Boston was washed out in the fifth before the Braves could make it legal, with Mort Cooper holding a 5-1 edge at the time.

New York's Yankees greeted Cleveland like long lost relatives after a tough series with Detroit and pummeled the Indians, 9-2, behind Floyd Bevens' five-hitter. Yank catcher Mike Garbarik finally broke his hit famine with two singles after going 50 times for only one hit all season.

Walks Are Fatal

Detroit dropped two full games behind the Yanks by bowing to Boston, 6-4, when Walt Wilson and 18-year-old Bill Pierce walked in two runs with the bases loaded. Dave Ferriss, appearing as a pinch-hitter, trotted to force in the tie-breaking score.

Washington had the same trouble when Walt Holborow passed three Chicago batters in succession to hand the White Sox an 11-9 decision in the 11th.

Sig Jakucki's three-hit, 4-0, whitewash of Philadelphia for St. Louis was the finest job of the day and the Brownie hurler helped his own cause with a triple that started the scoring.

Allentown Captures York Series Opener

(By The Associated Press)

A grand slam homerun in the seventh inning by Charlie Anderson, Allentown second baseman, gave the Allentown Red Birds a 5-4 victory over the York White Roses in the opening game of a four-game series in the Interstate league last night.

Anderson, a son of the Oglethorpe university baseball coach, broke his bat when he fouled off the first pitch, but he hit the next pitch over the left field fence.

Ollie Vanek, Allentown manager, who was making his first appearance in the lineup in more than two weeks, was ushered from the game in the second inning by Umpire Shindler for protesting too vigorously against called balls and strikes.

Trenton won a doubleheader from the Hagerstown Owls at Trenton, 8-1 and 8-2. Every player in the Trenton lineup hit safely in each game, with the Spartans collecting 12 safeties in the opener, and 16 in the nightcap. Wilmington outlasted the Lancaster White Roses 8-7 in a game at Lancaster.

Infield Shakeup Improves Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 2 (AP) — Back in the win column again today after an infield shakeup, the high-flying Pittsburgh Pirates — who've dropped only two out of their past 12 games—looked better than ever in their drive for the National League pennant.

Manager Frankie Frisch, critical of weak defensive play in the infield which snapped his nine-game victory string Wednesday, yesterday moved Bob Elliott from third base to right field, benched shortstop Frankie Gustine and revamped his batting order.

With the veteran Lee Handley returning to his old post at third and young Vic Barnhart at short, the Bucs responded by tagging the Phillies 6-5 on the strength of five double plays. Barnhart took part in three and Handley one.

Sports
Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 2 (AP)—A recent communique from minor league baseball headquarters brings an official ruling by head man William G. Bramham and Leslie O'Connor of the baseball commissioner's office that a player sent out on option must be counted in the player limits of both the club that options him and the one that receives him.

These two claim that always has been the rule, but other baseball men argue that its a new "interpretation" and that previously such players were included in the "active" lists but not counted among those the receiving club has "under control."

The official version seems to make it rather tough for a "farm" team that might get a half dozen players from its major league parent on a 24-hour recall basis and would have to release as many players to make room for them.

Perhaps it is noteworthy that the ruling was questioned by George Weiss of the Yankees' system and Horace Stoneham of the Giants. . . . Could that old farm vs. independent feud be warming up again?

GEORGE DOESN'T DO IT

Since the Chicago Bears' front office moved to the fighting front in 1942, general manager Ralph Brizola has received just two communications from boss George Halas. . . . One was a Christmas greeting from the Pacific, the other a "hello" note enclosed with the answers to a lot of questions Brizola had asked. . . . But coach Luke Johnson claims he's not so fortunate. "When I don't hear from Halas I figure I'm going all right," he says. "But when he does write he sure says plenty."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Ever heard of a city that had a brother act in big league baseball management? New York did in 1896 when Arthur Irwin piloted the Giants and John Irwin piloted the Metropolitans. . . . Robert E. Crowley, the Baltimore photo-finish man, has received orders to install his finish camera at England's dog tracks.

Coach Fendley Collins of Michigan State calls on college wrestling to "open up" and provide more spectacular performances for the fans. There's nothing like a burp with a Harvard accent. . . . Joe Engel, Chattanooga's baseball showman, has gained 20 pounds in three weeks and is on the road to recovery from a serious illness. The Lookout's ten-game winning streak may have helped.

Derby Prospects In Blue Grass Stakes

Louisville, Ky., June 2 (AP)—Ten of the outstanding three-year-olds from the west were set to test their Kentucky Derby prospects at Churchill Downs today in the 20th renewal of the $10,000 added Blue Grass stakes.

With possibly two or three exceptions, everything that has shown class here has been entered in the Blue Grass, an annual Keeneland feature held this year during the Churchill Downs meeting.

Seven of the Blue Grass runners have won races here this spring. Col. E. R. Bradley's Burning Dream, winner of last Saturday's one-mile Derby trial, was a slight favorite for today's renewal.

He will be meeting three of the horses he whipped in the Derby trial—Best Effort, Foreign Agent and Darien. But he also will be taking on six strangers—Air Sailor, Byemabond, Fighting Step, Pot O'Luck, Darby Dieppe and Sea Swallow.

Harrisburg, June 2 (AP)—Periodic health examinations for Pennsylvania's school children, teachers and other education employees was made compulsory Friday. Legislation signed by Governor Martin appropriated $400,000 to the State Health department with instructions to require complete medical and dental tests in all schools.

Voiselle Fined $500,
Mel Ott Announces

St. Louis, June 2 (AP)—Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants today announced that Bill Voiselle, his top pitcher, had been fined $500 for disobeying instructions in pitching to a batter.

In last night's game with the Cardinals, with the Giants leading 3 to 1 in the ninth, Voiselle had two strikes and no balls on Johnny Hopp, Cardinal rightfielder.

Voiselle's third pitch was a change-of-pace slow ball over the plate. Hopp clouting it for a triple and scoring a runner from third. Hopp later scored himself to tie the count, after which the Redbirds went on to win, 4 to 3.

Ott said he previously had warned Voiselle about throwing a "fast pitch" under such circumstances.

OPA PROMISES TO DISTRIBUTE MEAT FAIRLY

Washington, June 2 (AP)—The OPA today promised each county of the nation a fair share of the short meat supply.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced a "fair distribution plan" directing all commercial slaughterers to resume the pattern of distribution they followed in the first three months of 1944.

Bowles emphasized that the plan will not give each area as much meat as last year, but he called it "a long way toward the goal of fair and even distribution of the supply that we do have."

The new action supplements an earlier order limiting the amount of farm slaughter for sale and slaughter by non-federally inspected plants.

Logical Follow-Up

Federally inspected meat, in addition to supplying the armed forces, is the only meat that can be shipped across state lines.

"Already animals going to federally inspected plants are on the increase," Bowles said in a statement.

Describing the "fair distribution plan" as a logical follow-up, Bowles said some slaughterers, "for a variety of reasons," have changed their normal pattern of geographical distribution, thereby accounting in large measure for present faulty distribution.

Effective June 17

The first three months of last year were chosen as the base period, he said, because it was the most recent complete quarter of flush production in all parts of the country.

The order will become effective June 17.

During each reporting period (month) any slaughterer must deliver into each county at least 80 per cent (by weight) of the proportionate amount of the civilian meat supply he delivered into that county in each of the first three months of 1944.

During any three consecutive accounting periods, however, a slaughterer's deliveries into each county must come up to 90 per cent of the proportionate amount he delivered during each of the first three months of 1944.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg. — An art exhibit sponsored by the city-wide group of the Ladies of Charity, of Washington, D. C., was held last Friday at St. Joseph's college. The designs were submitted by students of various high schools and colleges, the motif being a stained glass window honoring St. Louise de Marillac. The contest will be held for four successive years in the hope of selecting a design suitable for a stained glass window to be placed in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C. The Ladies of Charity are now raising funds for the window. Well-known Washington artists will judge the designs submitted this year at a luncheon in Washington this month. The winner each year will be awarded a prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Boyle and family spent Memorial day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyle.

Miss Frances Rowe, nurse at the Mt. Alto hospital, Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Combs.

The Francis X. Elder post of the American Legion and Auxiliary attended the Memorial day services at Rocky Ridge Lutheran church last Sunday. Approximately 39 members of the post and auxiliary were present. The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Kelly, was the speaker and Commander Leslie Fox placed the wreath at the altar. Another wreath was placed at the Honor Roll in Thurmont and one at the Honor Roll in Emmitsburg.

On Battleship In Sea Battles

Aboard a U. S. Battleship in the Pacific, (Delayed)—Robert E. Dunkinson, seaman second class, whose wife lives at 434 South Washington street, Gettysburg, Pa., fought at Okinawa aboard this venerable battleship, which, through 33 action-packed months, has never been hit by enemy shells.

The Okinawa action was her fifth major engagement of World War II and one of the most dramatic in her long career.

For more than a month her main and secondary batteries blasted at pin-point targets on the island. It was not a one-sided battle. At one time she won a duel with a shore battery that was hurling shells precariously close. At another an enemy bomber made a run on the ship, going down with a terrific explosion as the ship's guns found their mark. The ship saw action in Europe and also took part in the two Jima bombardments.

ARGENTINE CRITICS WARY

Montevideo, June 2 (AP)—Even on the streets of free Montevideo most exiles from Argentina are wary of criticizing the Argentine government of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell.

However, many in this stream of exiles—political refugees and expelled persons—are sources for much information about Argentina, where a strict press censorship has been reestablished.

Informants reaching Montevideo are skeptical regarding the announced willingness of the Farrell regime to hold a general election, and say that even if it was held it would be carefully engineered. They point out that since Argentina declared war on Germany and Japan the Argentine government armed itself with a set of decrees, purportedly assuring secrecy of the national defense, but actually usable to suppress any criticism.

Numerous prominent citizens have been arrested; several newspapers have been closed; arrests of newspapermen were reported by informants as continuous.

Newspaper readers in Argentina know almost nothing of the criticism directed from abroad against the Farrell government.

Bridge Boarded Up;
Travelers Use Boats

Philadelphia, June 2 (AP)—They rowed to work from Lumberville, Pa., yesterday, and delivered the Raven Rock, N. J., milk supply by boat.

Residents were forced to take the long, hard way around when the Delaware river which connects the Commission boarded up the 90-year-old covered bridge over the Delaware river which connects the towns because it is unsafe.

Both communities protested the closing without success. With the span closed, three Lumberville residents employed in Trenton, N. J., got out the rowboat. They took along the milk for Raven Rock residents who usually walked across the bridge to get it.

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Steve Early went off for a two weeks' rest Friday, proud wearer of the Distinguished Service Medal for more than 12 years in "inestimable help" to two commanders-in-chief. On June 15 Early will enter the production and selling fields as executive vice president of Pullman, Inc.

Just Folks

ON NEATNESS
I suppose I ought to be neat and fit for folks to see. Anyhow, my mother said it: "Nice boys wash their hands and faces; To their parents they're a credit. Of neglect they show no traces. But my blouses soon were crumpled And my hair was quickly rumpled.

By and by the Nellie said: "Why can't you be neater, Ed? Drop that old hat! Get a new one! Why not dress as all the others? Bow tie always and a blue one! So much trimmer are your brothers! Surely if to try you started, You could keep your hair well parted."

So it's always been with me, Tidy long I cannot be. Spots degrade the suit I'm wearing. Though it cost a hundred dollars; Children maul me, button tearing. Sticky fingers stain my collars. Let the dudes be always dressy. There's more fun in being messy.

Today's Talk

BACK TO OLD BOOKS
I am always happy in a book store, with all its seemingly endless varieties of books on every topic under the sun; but somehow I get closer to myself, and to those who have created the many enduring books of the past, when I browse, and lose myself, in a second-hand book store, for here are often to be found the books that have been tested and proved to be worthy of long life. How many a worn or newly discovered friend I have met in these fine establishments! Never is such a visit wasted or regretted. Not long ago I came across the first publication in book form of that famous editorial to "Virginia," who wrote to the editor of the New York Sun, inquiring if there really was a Santa Claus. In this publication of Sun editorials was that one in which the writer said that there was a Santa Claus, and that there always would be one. Proudly, I took the book home. It cost me but a single dollar! The book was published about forty years ago.

Good books never become old. They are in their youth to the first reader who loves and appreciates them. And in many an old book store may be found today a forgotten and neglected title that yet may become famous! Many of my most beloved volumes have never yet reached a second edition. I believe that it was nearly twenty years before a second edition of Samuel Butler's "The Way of All Flesh" was published. First editions of Arnold Bennett's "Old Wives' Tale" hovered on book dealer's shelves for years, as did Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage." Such examples could be noted by the score.

In an old book store, some years ago, I came across a most inspiring little volume which gave a brief biography of all the mothers of the Presidents of the United States. I wonder how many people could give the maiden name of more than one or two? But they were all great mothers. Elizabeth Hutchinson, the mother of President Andrew Jackson, especially interested me. Jefferson's father died a few days before he was born, and to the poverty-stricken mother in her crude log cabin home was given over the responsibility of his training. And this crude cabin not even her own, but her sister's!

I could write a volume upon the books I prize that I have acquired in just this way—adventuring in old second-hand book stores. They are an asset to any community, and are usually conducted by caretakers of the beautiful and worth while. My suggestion is to get the habit of visiting them!

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

TEN YEARS AGO

Soldier Dead Remembered In Services Here: With a straight-from-the-shoulder address by Governor George H. Earle, a large crowd and colorful parade and solemn and soul-stirring exercises in the National cemetery, Gettysburg observed Memorial Day on Thursday. At the rostrum Congressman Harry L. Haines, of the York-Adams-Franklin district, presided. After the invocation given by Dr. Charles H. Huber, Congressman Haines led the audience in renewing its allegiance to the flag and country.

The Blue and Gray band, of Gettysburg played "America," after which State Senator John S. Rice gave Lincoln's immortal Gettysburg address. Governor Earle was presented by Congressman Haines.

At the conclusion of the address, the Venerable A. A. Hughes pronounced the benediction. The exercises closed with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner," by the 103rd medical regiment band, of Lancaster.

Supreme Court Ousts NRA Rule: Washington, May 27 (AP)—Recogizing act provisions giving the President the right to proclaim code rule over private industry—a power regarded as the heart of NRA—were held unconstitutional this afternoon by the supreme court.

D.A.R. Prizes Are Awarded: Miss Marion Shelly and Rodney Sachs, students at Gettysburg high school, were announced as the joint winners of the D.A.R. prize of $5 for the best American history student in the local high school.

Thirty-two members of the local chapter of the D.A.R., attended a patriotic program in the high school headed by Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, regent, who presided.

Cedric Tilberg, a senior, read his essay, the first prize winner "The Constitutional Convention and Its Leaders." Robert Fischer and John Deardorff were also announced by Mrs. Harper Donelson Sheppard as prize winners.

The address of Dr. Harvey D. Hoover followed, with his subject "Present Day Patriotism."

Accepts Y. W. Post In South: Miss Florence Mae Steward, general secretary of the Gettysburg Y.W.C.A., since September, 1930, who recently announced her resignation, effective June 1, said that she has accepted a position as general secretary of the Y.W.C.A. at Bismarck, Arizona.

Boys Buehler Home: S. Lester Scott, Hanover street, purchased the home of A. Danner Buehler, East Middle and Liberty streets, at private sale, Wednesday afternoon.

Governor Selects Senator Rice To Head Commission On Anniversary Of Battle: A distinct honor was conferred upon State Senator John S. Rice, Carlisle street, Thursday afternoon, when Governor George H. Earle announced, shortly before returning to the executive mansion in Harrisburg, his appointment as chairman of the Pennsylvania state commission to make plans and preparations for the 75th Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

Rev. Donald R. Heiges And Miss Mary Kump Wed: Miss Mary Suzanne Kump, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. William A. Kump, Chambersburg, and the Rev. Donald R. Heiges, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Heiges, Biglerville, were married Saturday evening at 5 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church Chambersburg, by the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. Clarence O'Neal, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Heiges will reside at 227 Carlisle street.

Orttanna Man Married Here: Allen L. Shultz, of near Orttanna, and Miss Charlotte E. Grace, of near Mt. Alto, were united in marriage Saturday evening at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. C. W. Baker, East Water street.

Local Families Change Residence: Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Myers and daughter, Miss Virginia, moved from their home on East Broadway to the Robert Thompson cottage, near Caledonia, which they will occupy until Miss Myers' new home on the Munnasburg road is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bochner and family moved from the William G. Weaver home, Broadway to Miss Myers' home on East Broadway.

Farmers' Market Opens With Capacity House: Gettysburg's rival indoor markets played their initial engagement here on Saturday.

In number of hucksters and patrons, the farmers' market in the Sachs building, rear of York street, far outstripped the borough's market in the American Legion building, Baltimore street.

Personal: Mademoiselle Monique Ruellan, of Bordeaux, France, is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John D. Keith, Carlisle street. Rex Gilbert, Hanover street, has gone to Ocean City, New Jersey, to spend the summer.

Miss Marian Miller, Miss Virginia Truett, of Gettysburg; Miss Elizabeth Benson of Guernsey, and Miss Florence Musselman, of Fairfield, are members of the graduating class at Hood College this spring.

It's the old law of compensation. Now that gas is poorer our taxes are more volatile.

Slow cranking of the engine in summertime may seem like a mystery but actually it is a plain hint of one of three conditions. The battery could be weak and the starter motor could be sluggish, but the most likely of the three possible causes is a poor connection. But here's an angle, if there is such a connection the lights will be dim and the horns a bit on the feeble side. Main connection to consider is the post on the starter-motor, but don't forget the battery connectors and the ground strap.

It's Still Poor Gas

In an effort to drive home the fact that engines are in increasingly poor shape the National Automobile Dealers Association quotes Dr. H. C. Dickinson, chief of the Heat and Power Division of the National Bureau of Standards as saying that it is not true that the quality of gasoline now in use accounts for excessive knocking and deficiency in power. I don't know what kind of gas the Doctor has been getting for his car but it certainly isn't what I have been buying nor what many of my readers have been getting for their cars. Just put in a few gallons of premium fuel, which is still below its pre-war octane rating, and the difference in engine performance is surprising. Dr. Dickinson is right in adding that "quite a lot of trouble with the average passenger car today is that it is not driven far enough at a time" but if we had better gas now we could make the rationed runs with far less gumming of motor parts and ping from lowered anti-knock properties.

Engines need all manner of service, yes. But exonerating today's gas is no way to put the idea over. It is not generally known that valve timing has an effect on engine compression. We have to believe that compression is so entirely dependent on valve seating and piston ring efficiency that it is not easy to picture valve timing as playing a part. However, just let the timing get out of whack and you will discover that compression drops just as if you were to wear down the cylinder walls or hold a valve open with too much carbon on its seat. Incorrect timing opens or closes the valves at the wrong time. Bear this clearly in mind when making any adjustments or replacements in the timing gear case.

Mechanic Joe Speaking: "If you are a believer in the law of compensation you won't be so surprised if the car acts a bit odd after certain kinds of service jobs. I have to do a lot of explaining to those who insist upon quiet valve operation. They immediately complain that the engine doesn't seem to be as zippy as before, apparently forgetting that this goes with reducing tappet clearance. Less noise and better efficiency, but also less zip."

"The other day I serviced a starter drive that was missing half the time because its shaft was gummy. After I had cleaned the shaft and overhauled the starter motor there was considerable after-spinning of the starter motor and the shaft. In fact, the whole unit worked so well that it spun with a decided whine. This alarmed the owner who immediately suspected that I had not done the job properly. Shortly the shaft will gum up a little and conditions will be normal."

Feeler Gauge Lies

One of the unfortunate things about checking breaker point clearance is the inaccuracy of the method of using a feeler gauge for this purpose. Since the points develop high spots which look like jagged edges under a magnifying glass it is obvious that when a feeler gauge is inserted between the points it reads the gap between the high spots rather than between the average of the points' surfaces. You may be setting the points for a gap of .025 inch, for instance, and yet the actual gap may be only .020 inch which is too close for the particular situation. Figure on a margin of error of about .005 inch.

How can carbon be removed without the trouble and expense of taking off the cylinder head?

In these busy days it is a reasonable enough question for many to ask. Old timers remember the days when we used to burn out carbon, and then there were the engines without demountable heads. For these it was necessary to use special scraping tools, inserted through the spark plug opening. After carbon was loosened it was blown out with compressed air. Either of these plans could be used now, but we have learned over the years that neither of them is any help to the valves. And valve conditioning means everything in a motor service job. Carbon removal has become quite incidental to valve servicing.

What Motor Men Want

You may have voted for this, that or the other convenience or improvement in the postwar car but perhaps you'd be interested to know some of the things service men would like to see changed. A drain in the bottom of the gas tank seems to be high on the list, and it certainly has our enthusiastic approval. An inspection hole in the brake backing plate also looks like a good idea, for it makes possible an occasional check on the condition of the lining and the situation inside the drum. The service man's vote is also for a large jack support plate at each corner of the chassis. In anticipation of post-war popularity of trailers the frame rear cross-member would be heavier to accommodate a trailer hitch.

How's that battery ground strap? It may look reasonably good, but you can't tell without an electrical test. They way to do this is with the aid of a voltmeter. Place its positive leg to the frame of the car close to the battery and the negative leg to the grounded battery post. Now crank the engine with the starter. If the voltmeter shows a reading the strap isn't up to par and should be replaced.

Won't Burn Out Lamps

There seems to be some question on the part of those who like to argue over motor matters whether a dead short in a lighting circuit would burn out the lamp bulbs, or just make the lamps burn dimly. The answer is that the short would in no sense overload the lamps and that this would simply rob them of normal current load. The reason so many motorists have slipped on this little matter is that an open circuit so frequently burns out lamps. But an open circuit is different. It is a break in the circuit which, when eliminated (as when a broken or loose wire suddenly makes contact again) allows a dammed up charge of current to become excessive. The lamps then are temporarily overloaded at such moments.

RUSSIA STANDS firm on BIG-5 VETO CONTROLS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Diplomatic News Editor

San Francisco, June 2 (AP)—Russia is standing firm on a rigid interpretation of big-five veto controls over United Nations machinery designed to keep world peace.

Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegation chief, handed a new note on the Russian attitude last night to Secretary of State Stettinius and the chiefs of the British, French and Chinese delegations at the United Nations conference.

Contents of the note were not immediately made known outside the top official circle of the big-five. It was learned today that when Gromyko rapidly summarized its contents others present gathered that Moscow firmly opposes any relaxation of the veto power and may be objecting even to receipt of a complaint by the security council of the projected world organization except when there is unanimous agreement among the big powers.

Daily Big 5 Parleys

The veto power stands as an overriding right of any of the big five nations to forbid any decisive step it may disapprove.

While this appeared to intensify differences among the big five over how the veto should be applied—Britain pressed for a less rigid interpretation—Stettinius went ahead nevertheless with plans for trying to speed the conference to conclusion early this month.

It was agreed tentatively that the big-five should meet at least once a day from now on until the log-jam of conference committee work—which has been blocked principally by the veto issue—is completely broken and all remaining problems are cleared up.

In line with this schedule the big-five were called to another meeting at Stettinius' penthouse headquarters today (10 a. m. PWT).

The first committee to complete its assigned task was one charged with drawing the preamble, purposes and principles of the projected world organization.

Under the committee statement, armed force could only be used by any member nation in accordance with United Nations principles for international peace and security.

Chapter 15
It was late when Kay went to the dressing room. Several girls were there. She heard their voices through the cigarette smoke and the music from the orchestra.

"Kay, she's lovely! She'll be like a sister to you."

"Oh, Kay, the divinest music." "That's a sweet dress, Kay, but isn't Mrs. Lambert gorgeous?"

Babs Downs and Mary Scott came in and gradually the others left. Babs said, with a trace of bitterness, "She's charming tonight, Kay. The queen graciously smiling on all her subjects—and especially on Jimmy."

Kay nodded from the mirror. "I hope Daddy doesn't see it," she said fiercely. "I'd rather have a job as sweeper in the mill than to have to live with her."

"You know I'm sorry, Kay," Mary broke in. "It hurts dreadfully to see what she's doing to Katherine's home, and to you. But you know what your mother would say. It's the wealth of the spirit that counts."

Kay turned from the door. "Yes," she agreed, "she'd say that, wouldn't she?"

The music changed, became faster and faster. Jimmy swung Kay into the center of the room in a series of fast, intricate steps. Her feet scarcely touched the floor; her cheeks were glowing; her copper curls were gay and disordered.

When they stopped amid loud applause, Kay saw her father's affectionate smile turned upon her, the jealousy in Lucia's black eyes; the boredom on the faces of the guests from Atlanta. Then she felt her glance drawn to the door and saw Rex Warner standing there. Their eyes met for a fleeting instant and exchanged a thousand tender and uncharted thoughts.

She hastened to him, smiling a joyful welcome. "This is a happy surprise," she cried. "I was trying not to watch for you after your note came."

"I drove faster than the law allows to get here," his glance moved about the room. "But I don't see how you missed me. There's such a crowd here."

"Yes. Come and meet Lucia and Francis."

They crossed the room to her father and Lucia. "This is Dr. Warner," she told them, and her voice held a cadence of joy.

Lucia raised her eyes to the doctor's face. He looked at her closely, this woman whose coming had made Kay unhappy. Certainly she was a work of art; hard and brilliant, sure of what she wanted, but lovely to look upon. Almost any man favored with her attention would feel the stir of pride.

He murmured something, but was thinking: Where have I seen her?

Rex danced well. Not as well as Jimmy, but then what else did Jimmy ever do except dance?

"You saved the night for me," she whispered happily.

"How?"

"By coming here. I was having a miserable time."

"You seemed to be having fun when you were dancing with the young man over there who's glaring at me now?"

"It wasn't nearly as nice as dancing with you," she confessed.

He bent his dark head over the bright one that came even with his heart. "You dance like a dream," he said.

She sighed happily. "It can be acquired," she whispered. "All one needs is inspiration."

"Well, how do you like my new mother?" Kay asked.

Remembering Lucia's venomous glance toward Kay, his arm tightened protectively about her. "Perhaps I'd better not answer," he said slowly. "I'm thinking of your real mother—the portrait down at the hospital."

Kay bit her lip. "Don't," she said, "or I shall cry before all this ghastly crowd."

He was silent for a moment. Then, "I'm sorry, Kay. I know I spoke like a schoolboy. But I'm too tired for polite conversation. I shouldn't have come here tonight." The air was suddenly oppressive with the odor of cigarette smoke and liquor. "I'm going now."

"I'm terribly sorry. But please don't leave me here," she begged. "Take me with you."

"Will your father mind?"

"Suppose he does?" she retorted. "I'll think of explanations afterward. Wait for me while I get my wrap."

She was gone and presently Rex was standing with Lucia and Francis. Jimmy Brent joined them.

Jimmy was cool and bold and sure of himself, as he asked the doctor, "Been telling Kay some pretty war stories?"

"War?" repeated Lucia quickly. "You look too young to have been in the war, Dr. Warner."

"I was in the medical corps," he told her, to keep from answering young Brent's question. "Your face seems familiar, Mrs. Lambert. Is it possible that we have met before?"

"I lived in Charleston," she replied. "My first husband was Bob Wentworth. He belonged to an old family there."

Wentworth? Charleston? He turned to her, and only the years of training and rigid self-discipline kept the horror from his voice. "Not Captain Robert E. Wentworth?"

When he was sure he could speak in a natural voice, he said, "Yes, Mrs. Lambert, I knew Jimmy very well."

But he was sure now that he had never seen the beautiful Lucia Lambert before tonight. He had seen only a small picture of her.

stabilizer bar at the rear of my car has been broken for some time. This looks like a difficult welding job and I am wondering if there would be any harm in postponing the work until I use the car more extensively? B. H.

A. Cars got along famously before the advent of stabilizers and anti-sway bars. They are an advantage in keeping the car to a more even keel when rounding curves. Have it replaced later.

Q. Ever since the engine of my car developed a tendency toward overheating I note that I have been having more trouble starting. I think the battery isn't up to par. Could there be any connection between the two? G. K. L.

A. The belt that drives the fan on this car also drives the generator. That explains the simultaneous overheating and battery weakness. Tighten the belt by pulling the generator slightly farther away from the motor block.

Q. What would cause the engine to crank very slowly when it is well heated up? I never have any trouble when it is cold. W. M. C.

A. This looks like a case of a badly gummed up engine. When this gummy substance on the pistons heats up it turns to a varnish and binds it "freeze" to the cylinder walls.

Q. Is it all right to leave a lot of clearance at the valve tappets? I don't mind the noise, and I have been told that if there is plenty of clearance there won't be any risk of the valves holding open when they expand. R. McB.

A. This is an unwise extreme. Such excess clearance means that the valves do not lift high enough to permit normal entrance and exit of gases. Follow the car maker's directions as to clearances.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and send stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

LITTLE SIGN AT POPPY FIELD ON SITE OF LIDICE

Lidice, Czechoslovakia, June 2 (AP)—At the lower end of a gently sloping wheat field, polka-dotted by a million blood-red poppies, is a freshly-painted sign saying: "Here used to stand the village of Lidice."

The little sign in the wheat beside a dusty, rutted clay road is the epitaph of Lidice, a quiet little Czech village erased from the earth by vengeful Germans.

All the world heard about Lidice, as trumpeted by the Nazis themselves following the assassination of hangman Reinhardt Heydrich in 1939; of the killing of its male population and its extermination.

Wheat Grows Now
They stripped Lidice's men naked and slaughtered them. Women and children were packed off to concentration camps. They left not one stone of the village's 112 buildings standing.

Today the mile-square area which was Lidice is an open field partly covered by fat, ripening wheat, partly by a stubble of wheat already harvested.

Out of 667 people in Lidice that night of June 9th, 1942, only two are known for sure to be alive. Both are women in a hospital, one of them a tubercular patient.

The men were marched naked to a hillside cemetery early on the morning of June 10 and shot in rows of ten. Their bodies were later dumped into a hole in what was the center of town and their mass grave left unmarked.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
Following one of the finest nationwide reception ever accorded a motion picture, Paramount's "For Whom the Bell Tolls," which has been playing throughout the country at advanced prices, is scheduled to open Monday at the Majestic Theatre for the first time on a regular admission basis.

"Bell Tolls" presents a vivid account of the endurance and passion of people fighting for their right to live in freedom. The setting is the mountain country of Spain. The action is in the hands of a small band of guerrilla fighters.

The part of the guerrilla leader is played by Akim Tamiroff and that of his lusty wife, Pilar, by that great dramatic actress of Greece, Katina Paxinou, whose portrayal won for her the Academy Award. Also in the cast are Joseph Calleia, Arturo de Cordova, Mikhail Rasmussen and many others.

WEDNESDAY
Chosen by 20th Century-Fox as one of the outstanding motion picture entertainments highlighting its 30th Anniversary of leadership in the industry, "Molly and Me," the riotous comedy hit starring Gracie Fields, Monty Woolley and Roddy McDowall with an outstanding cast of supporting players, is scheduled to play Wednesday at the Majestic Theatre.

THURSDAY
The story of "Wuthering Heights" unfolds on the wild and desolate moors of Yorkshire. It is a tale of a high-spirited, quick-tempered, beautiful girl, who is loved madly by two men—one, half-gypsy and half-gentleman, the other rich and well born. Merle Oberon, playing Cathy, is desperately in love with Laurence Olivier, playing Heathcliff. But the glittering wealth and esteemed social position of Edgar Linton, portrayed by David Niven, leads the girl into an unhappy romance. The strange three-cornered love story is told with dramatic impact, sweeping romance and in terms of stark human emotions, mysteriously influenced by the desolate moors.

The efforts of two innocent persons, a psychology professor and a beautiful artist's model, to avoid the consequences of an unpremeditated crime, motivate International Pictures' latest offering, "The Woman in the Window" which stars Edward G. Robinson and Joan Bennett.

Hailed as one of the season's most distinctive films, this RKO Radio release tells in striking fashion what happens when the professor, visiting the woman to inspect some painting, is savagely attacked by her jealous suitor, and to save his own life, is forced to kill the man.

Washington, June 2 (AP)—The House Appropriations committee Friday cut sharply into the 1946 fiscal year funds for a group of war-born agencies in a bill it described as "the beginning of the end" of such agencies.

With one exception, the committee trimmed budget estimates for every agency which already had been reduced by President Truman, as it sent the $769,764,850 measure to the floor for House action next week. The exception was a $325,000 allotment for operation of state marine schools, which the committee left untouched.

WAR CRIMINALS MUST PAY FULL PRICE SAYS U.S.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
London, June 2 (AP)—Col. A. B. McGreggor Goff of the United States War Crimes commission declared today that the United States was determined to exact a full price from every war criminal — "white or yellow."

The government spokesman's remarks promising punishment for Japanese criminals as well as Germans and Axis satellites were made before the United Nations War Crimes commission and disclosed in a summary of his address, released through the British Ministry of Information.

He told other delegates of the 16 nations attending the conference that one reason the United States had not yet submitted its list of war criminals was the difficulty of collecting evidence from returned prisoners of war, now scattered throughout the country.

Nearly 3,000 now are listed as war criminals, virtually all of them Germans. A highly responsible informant said the list had been kept secret before victory in the fear that Germany would engage in wholesale slaughter of Allied prisoners. It appeared likely that the identity of hundreds of those on the war criminals list would be made known soon. All face a maximum sentence of death if convicted, it was learned.

Blanket Indictment
Lt. Col. J. V. Hodgson, U. S. representative on the commission, said that certain types of war crimes apparently were dictated by the Axis governments as a matter of policy.

His assertion was viewed as supporting a general belief that the victorious powers would try to pin war guilt on Axis governments as such on a blanket basis.

His address, part of which was released through the ministry of information, urged the establishment of a national recording office in London to coordinate the separate findings of the member nations in their investigations of war crimes.

"While evidence in possession of one national office might be insufficient to identify persons responsible for a crime, all the evidence, when collated might very well identify all of the persons."

Col. Hodgson hinted that there would be support within the commission for a plan recommended by Judge Samuel Rosenman, White House advisor, for a pool indictment of such terror organizations as the Gestapo and SS (Elite Guard).
